

I can't believe why you would want to change anything about Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law! If anything you should model the federal law (if it's even needed) to mirror Indiana's law because it works wonderfully! I used to get anywhere from 10 to 15 calls per day and now it's down to 1 or 2, and if I could, I would sign up not to receive even them.

This Country has enough screwed up laws that come out of Washington D.C. without them wanting to mess with the telephones of ordinary people who live in a brick home that receives 20 calls a week about buying siding for their house!

I work midnights and you don't realize what a Godsend Ind.'s Privacy Law has been to me! How would you like to receive 10 to 15 calls between the hours of 11P.M. & 6A.M. while you were trying to get a good night's sleep?

Please, if you have to make a law, then model it after Ind.'s law and don't write up some watered down version which would defeat the whole purpose of having a Privacy Law!

Let the people of their individual states decide what they would like to have in their own state concerning their own phones and the privacy options that they would like to have with them!

Indiana's Privacy Law is wonderful! Leave it alone!
